

RETURN OF VICTORS IS TRIUMPHAL ONE

Hundreds of Philadelphia Fans Buy Tickets to See Players Come In.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 25.—Connie Mack and his husky heroes arrived home from Chicago last night with the world's championship tucked under their shirt bosoms. They were met at the station by the fans headed by mayor Heyburn.

Hundreds of fans purchased tickets in order that they might enter the gates to the platforms and it was necessary to call 300 policemen to keep the crowds back.

The crowds swarmed upon the platform and the players had to fight their way through to the reception committee, which escorted them to the Bellevue Stratford hotel where they were dined, following which they attended a local theater, where they attracted much attention. The hero of the bunch was Coombs, who really won the championship for the Quaker City by winning three games out of the five played.

Although extra precautions had been taken to prevent the crowd from entering the Pennsylvania station the rioters outgeneralized the railroad officials. Huge gates had been erected at the entrances to the Broad street station and no one was allowed to reach the train floor who did not have a railroad ticket.

Not to be outdone by this piece of strategy, hundreds lined up at the ticket windows and purchased tickets to nearby stations, crowding the big station to overflowing.

A hurry call was sent to police stations and about 300 policemen were soon on the scene and kept the crowd back from the entrances.

When the train pulled into the station the players almost had to fight their way to the street, where 20 automobiles and the first regiment band were waiting.

"THE MELTING POT."

The scenic setting of the last act of Ziegfeld's play, "The Melting Pot," showing a roof garden in a settlement house in New York's lower East Side, overlooking the lower bay, with the statue of liberty prominent in the harbor scene, has aroused a great deal of comment. It is declared to be one of the finest sets of scenery that ever came out of the Gates & Morange studio, which has become famous since its work for the government, exhibited at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, and depicting vast areas of Alaskan scenery. The theatrical work turned out by Gates & Morange is done almost exclusively for the Lieber & Co. attractions they play. Prices of $2.50, $1.50 and $1.00 will be charged for the attraction when it appears at the El Paso theater Wednesday night.

SPECIAL MATINEE.

A special matinee for Walker Whiteside in "The Melting Pot" will be given Thursday, October 27. Owing to the length of the performance, and the company leaving at 7 o'clock Thursday evening, the curtain will rise at 1 o'clock, sharp, and no one will be seated during an act. The prices are: Lower floor, $1.50; balcony, $1.00.

"THE BONDSMAN" TONIGHT.

Manager Frank Rich cites his record-breaking Monday night attendance as the best criticism of the satisfaction given by the Glass company of Hall Caine's "Bondsmen," which continues to run for the week at the Crawford at prices ranging from 15 to 35 cents, reserves being on sale for all performances.

There will be a Wednesday matinee at 10 cents and 25 cents. Reservation of seats may now be made for "The Unwritten Law," which is underwritten for Sunday night.

EL PASO TALENT WANTED.

"Those desiring to compete for the amateur cash prizes at the Crawford on Friday night are urged to register as soon as possible," says manager Glass, so that he can arrange for rehearsals.

Houck and Weaver will bowl Hardiker and Schutz next Tuesday night. Harris and Ables will bowl the winners Thursday night. Houck's score Monday night—899 in five games—is the best of the season.

CHICAGO GRIEF IS SOFTENED WITH COIN

Each Player on the Defeated Nine Receive $1315 for The Series.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 25.—This city is in deep mourning owing to the loss of the championship. However, the players got their gold coin, each one receiving $1315 for his work during the series. Trainer Simmons and secretary Williams each got a full share. Chance had been assessed $50 following a dispute with the umpire, and this amount was deducted from the Cubs' share.

CANANEA WILL NOT PLAY AT THE FAIR

Cananea will not be seen at the fair tournament. A letter has been received from manager Victor Walling stating that it would be necessary to obtain a guarantee of $1000 from the fair association before the Cananea club could enter the tournament. As this is $500 more than the association has offered the other clubs in the league the offer will be declined, president Bassett says.

While in El Paso recently, manager Walling stated that he thought $500 was a sufficient guarantee, and that the club would enter the tournament with this amount guaranteed. A more recent letter states that the club could not afford to enter the contest for a guarantee less than $1000.

An effort is being made to get Moreland and Clifton to send a team to the tournament jointly in order to complete the schedule.

JUDGE OF RACES REACHES THE CITY

Judge C. E. Hunter, who will act as judge of the harness and running races at the fair, has arrived and is arranging the racing program.

In addition to Dan Patch, Minor Heir, Hedgewood Boy, Lady Maud C. and George Gano, of the Savage stable, the program includes some of the best performers on the grand circuit track, and the fair has arranged to expect to show all the class of an eastern meeting.

The running horse entries are being received from a number of owners who have brought their stables here for the racing season across the river. No entry fee is charged in this class.

EL PASO HERALD Roadtown As Planned By Chambless, Its Inventor and Mono Rail Line

"SMELTER KING'S" DAUGHTER WEDS

El Paso Girl Is Married Secretly in Portland, Oregon.

An El Paso girl was married in Portland last Wednesday, unknown to her parents, according to the Journal of that city, if plans were carried out as printed in the Journal of Tuesday. The Journal said:

An interesting story in three parts concerning a popular southern belle and a secret service agent, surrounds the romance culminating this afternoon in the marriage of Miss Florence Cooper of El Paso, Texas, and J. H. Reed of Chicago. The ceremony will be performed at the home of E. M. Chanler of Middleton, Ore., and tomorrow the bride and groom will tell her parents all about it.

The first part of the story is dated five years ago, when the couple met at a banquet at the home of the bride. The secret service agent was hunting counterfeiters and violators of the postal laws in the south. The second feature of the romance was the objection of the girl's parents to the marriage. And the last chapter will be written when the marriage ceremony is performed.

by Miss Cooper's uncle and aunt, the plans for the wedding were carried on with such secrecy that not even the Portland friends of the couple were aware of them.

Miss Cooper, who is the daughter of a smelter king at El Paso, induced her parents to allow her to visit Portland. She arrived Thursday. Mr. Reed asked his chief for a vacation. He arrived in Portland one week ago today. To his friends here he said he was "working on a case." Like all secret service work, he said it had to be done quietly. All yesterday the couple considered plans for a secret marriage.

The second chapter of their romantic story, dealing with the objections of Miss Cooper's parents, is the most interesting part of the affair. Papa Cooper admired Reed as a man, but he couldn't fancy a secret service operative as a son-in-law. The parents did not thoroughly understand the work of a secret service agent. All arguments made by the daughter did not make it clear. This was two years ago. The smelter king's daughter and Reed, however, continued to exchange messages of love after the latter was transferred to Chicago.

The result of this correspondence was the plan to meet in Portland. Hence they are here.

Miss Cooper is the only daughter of the smelter king. She is a leader in the fashionable set of El Paso. Reed has been in the secret service since the close of the Spanish-American war, in which he was a member of company A, fifth regiment, Pennsylvania. Five years ago the department sent him to Texas to work on a case. It was then that his eyes first met those of the pretty southern girl who becomes his bride.

BOOK WRITTEN ABOUT EL PASO

El Paso has had a book written about it. About two chapters is about El Paso and the tone is called "Cupid in Hell," with El Paso furnishing the setting for the reverse comparison. The author is Mrs. E. C. Wagner of Columbus, Ohio, who spent the winter here in 1908, staying at the St. Regis. One chapter in the book is called "Cupid in Mexico" and another is "On the Square," the square being English for San Jacinto plaza in El Paso. The book is the story of a pair of lovers who love in vain, one unfortunately being married. The book promises to be a sensation, the promise being furnished by Mrs. Wagner, the author.

WOULD BUILD A COUNTRY CITY FREE FROM GRAFT AND NOISE

New York Commission Investigates Chambless New Scheme in City Building.

New York, Oct. 25.—Before the end of this week, the New York City commission of population, recently appointed by the mayor pursuant to a resolution of the board of aldermen, will hold a special session to consider the merits of a plan invented by Edgar Chambless of this city for the organization of production, transportation and consumption which Mr. Chambless has named "Roadtown."

Roadtown, in a word, is a plan to build a city every part of which shall be in the country, and which shall still retain all the advantages of city life. The future Roadtown has been described as "the noiseless, dustless, smokeless, germless, streetless, horseless, trustless, graftless city."

The appointment for a hearing by the New York City commission is the first recognition by any official body of Mr. Chambless's remarkable plan, which already has secured recognition, however, from some of the most eminent authorities in this city.

Edison Favors Scheme.

Thomas A. Edison thinks so well of Roadtown that he has offered it the free use of his patents for building cement houses by the use of moulds.

Mr. Boyes, inventor of the Boyes Monorail Traction system, is so favorably impressed with the Roadtown plan that he has offered it free use of his traction patents.

The United States Electric Light and Power company became so interested in Mr. Chambless's scheme that it requested him to place a picture of Roadtown, and a description of its like in its booth at the electrical show at Madison Square Garden.

Pictures of Roadtown are displayed in over 50 of the most prominent show windows in New York City, and crowds daily gather on the sidewalks before these windows, studying the novel scheme.

Los Angeles Interested.

The Jury Returns Unanimous Verdict.

A jury consisting of some of the most distinguished chemists of America has returned an unanimous verdict of "not guilty" in the case of Knocker et al. vs. Coca-Cola. It will be remembered that some time ago a report was circulated to the effect that Coca-Cola contained injurious materials and was, therefore, harmful in its effect upon the human body.

The rumor was originated by an unscrupulous competitor of Coca-Cola, the popular temperance drink, spread rapidly and found some credence among those who did not know the origin of the report.

bureau of the Los Angeles 1915 movement," has written and asked Mr. Chambless to make an exhibit of his Roadtown plans at the first South-west City Planning conference, to be held in Los Angeles next month.

At the hearing to be held this week before the New York City commission, Mr. Chambless's plans will be advocated by the Rev. Dr. John Haynes Holmes, who succeeded the Rev. Lyman Abbott as pastor of the Church of the Messiah.

Heretofore the tendency of city building operations has been upward. The evolution of the skyscraper was brought about by the necessity for more office space within a limited area and the birth of the tenement is due to the close grouping of the city's enormous industries.

Chambless Reverses Things.

His invention calls for the building of concrete dwellings in long rows out over the country, mile upon mile, with means of transportation running through each house, instead of outside it, coupling houses and transportation in one machine, and utilizing the tops of the houses as a boulevard.

Hot and Cold Water All the Time.

Refrigerating plants, placed every few miles, will cool the water and keep food sweet and wholesome. Drinking water can be obtained by tapping any of the numerous rivers Roadtown will cross. Express trains, averaging 94 miles an hour, will take the Roadtownist to his destination. His department will be heated by hot water circulated from a heating plant by means of pumps.
